

INTRODUCTIONS

Look around the room. Did you know that it is a fact that two of you in this room within the first three years of service, will be involved in a deadly force confrontation? So who is it going to be? Do you know?

This is why we train and why you must be prepared at all times, because you never know when it will happen, but we do know that it will happen.

While that you are here, do not wear your heart on your selves because we are going to be honest with our critiques, so do not get your feelings hurt by them. Critiques are important for two reasons.

- A. To advise you of the mistakes that you made while under stress.
- B. To help you better protect yourself in the future by not making the same mistake twice.

Power Point

While that you are here there are 4 general firearm safety rules, and 19 specific rules that you are to follow at all times.

You are accountable for each and every round that you send down range. In the real world this could mean that you just killed a young child. Here we will simulate a real world environment. SO If you miss a steel target or you have rounds off the silhouette of a paper target or fail to properly manipulate your weapon the instructor that running the range will administer a negative reinforcement penalty, so that you will not make the same mistake again.
